

Title: Lapse-Based Insurance

Disclosure Statement – Kent Smetters

The author declares that he previously received a retainer from a national life insurance mutual company to help them create a platform to deliver objective financial advice to middle-class households and the Millennial generation. The financial advice division, however, does not sell life insurance. Moreover, the firm did not provide us with the survey data used in the paper.