Paper Title1 : Teaching-track economists in Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States

Paper Title 2: Teaching-Track Economists in the United Kingdom

Alvin Birdi

I am currently Director of the Economics Network which contributed £1000 towards a researcher to undertake qualitative analysis for this paper. I am also Chair of the European Economics Association's Education Committee. The above positions are unpaid. Neither Economics Network nor European Economic Association has any specific policies, goals or financial interests regarding teaching-track career academics. I acknowledge IRB approval from the University of Bristol. I also acknowledge £3600 funding from the School of Economics at University of Bristol awarded for research assistance.
