This research was conducted while I was an employee of the U.S. Census Bureau and the data used in this study is primarily confidential Census Bureau microdata. As noted in the acknowledgement of the paper, all results were reviewed by the Census Bureau disclosure avoidance staff to ensure the confidentiality of the data is not compromised. An early draft of the paper was reviewed by Census Bureau scientific staff prior to circulation in accordance with the Census Bureau paper review policy. No further reviews are required to circulate the paper.
